Earp the Gun Fighter.

During the last two weeks no name has been so freely bandied about in the newspapers as Wyatt Earp, the fighting man of blood and gun terror of Arizona.

The press has lambasted him to their hearts content and so far not a single editor has been laid out in the morgue. After a man of that kind has his gun taken off him he seems to be the most harmless of God's creatures.

But the climax of insults heaped on Earp was reached when Col Kawalsky was invited to a room by Earp to retract some statements, and while Earp was talking of a duel the wearied Colonel fell asleep in a chair right under Earp's nose.

How to Vote Them.

The Gazette asks Governor Sadler how he is going to vote the 5,000 men that Nevada will send to the front in case of war. The Governor says in response to this that they can be voted just as the U. S. soldiers were in '62. They voted on the field and there was no trouble. If Nevada soldiers vote as they fight, for the interest of the country, they will vote the Silver ticket.

A dispatch to a Chicago paper from Washington says that silver is to be given recognition in the new tariff bill by the imposition of a duty equal to the discount in the price of bullion. We hope that every silver man in Congress will work against that. It is either a precious metal or it is not. If it is a precious metal, it does not need protection. All that it needs is to have the restriction that is upon it taken away. We do not want any tariff put on it for the men of the East to say. "We have tried to protect your metal and it has done no good."—Salt Lake Tribune.

Leap year is drawing to a close, or rather, drawing off her clothes preparatory to a swim in the sea of oblivion. Many a fair creature who is sleeping on opportunities, and who might just as well be reposing elsewhere, will have only herself to blame if she has to wait eight long years for another chance to speak her mind. The year 1900 will not be leap year, as it is not divisible by 400.

It's diamonds to doughnuts that Governor Sadler appoints James F. Judge, his private secretary, to succeed General Beatty as Attorney-General. Ormsby must have it, you know, for the good of the Silver Party of Nevada. The State Government is all in the hands of the Democratic party now, by order of the Silver Party of Nevada. The game is finished for two years and everybody invited to roll.—Gazette.

It is no longer a question of Democracy or Republicanism in the matter of appointments. Mr. Judge was in the Silver ranks in 1890, and has been there ever since.

The recent discovery of coal a few miles south of Columbus, Esmeralda county, creates the keenest interest, it being used for domestic purpose in Columbus and Candelaria. The analysis shows it to be A No. 1 quality.

It looks as if the doctor who is charged with betraying Maceo sold the Spaniards the wrong goods, a sort of double cross.

The people of Virginia City are so alarmed over the ghost visitations that the Chronicle had to allay the public excitement by assuring them that there was no such thing as spooks in existence.

France desires to have a general disarmament of all the European powers. In other words make every ruler of a nation give up his gun.

The strike of the Leadville miners for $3 a day still holds out and money is pouring in daily to help them keep up the fight.

The Cuban question is likely to make a wide breach between the President and Congress.

The ruling of Judge Sanderson that he cannot referee prize fights in his Court is a sound one.
